Mr. Willkie Sends His Message

NEW YORK, N. 6—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie today telegraphed President Roosevelt congratulations on his reelection.

At 9:30 a.m. CST Willkie's press secretary, Lem Jones, gave out the text of the message:

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President of the United States,
Hyde Park, New York.

Congratulations on your reelection as president of the United States. I know that we are both gratified that so many American citizens participated in the election. I wish you all personal health and happiness. Sincerely,

WENDELL L. WILLKIE

The Election Front

BUENOS AIRES, N. 6—(AP)—President Roosevelt's apparent reelection was first page news today in all Buenos Aires morning newspapers. Every paper carried immediate editorial comment.

OTTAWA, N. 6—(AP)—News of President Roosevelt's reelection [illegible] was given out with [illegible] of most Canadian newspapers this morning.

It was too early for editorial comment, but Howard Ferguson, former Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain, made this observation:

"If President Roosevelt had been defeated it would have been interpreted by European states particularly eastern states with their pro-ally sympathies as a repudiation of the strong support he had given the cause."

SHANGHAI, Nov. 6—(AP)—Shanghai residents greeted President Roosevelt's reelection today with expressions of satisfaction.

Unofficial newspaper surveys showed 90 per cent of the residents in the American community favored President Roosevelt's reelection in contrast to 1936, when 90 per cent favored the Republican nominee, Alfred M. Landon.

Chinese newspapers were jubilant over the election trend. They expressed the prediction hope that the president would be returned to office to enable him to pursue a strong Far Eastern policy in opposition to Japanese expansion in China.

ROME, Nov. 6—(AP)—Fascist political circles today described the indicated reelection of President Roosevelt as "confirmation of American policy, which was expected."

"Since there was no surprising result, there is no occasion to comment," one high Fascist observer said. "American policy evidently will remain the same, and so will Italy's."

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6—(AP)—After keeping an eye on election returns until they showed him leading in his race for a third term in 40 states with 446 electoral votes, President Roosevelt went to bed at 1:35 a.m. CST.

"Things look perfectly fine," he told

Tradition Of Third Term Swept Aside In Balloting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(AP)—The third term tradition part and parcel of American political history for a century and a half was swept aside yesterday in the apparent Roosevelt triumph.

It was the first clear-cut test of the old tradition. It was the first time the electorate had ever expressed itself directly on the subject. And the verdict rendered by millions of votes gave Franklin Delano Roosevelt an increasingly strong title to the distinction of being the first man ever elected to the presidency three times.

President Roosevelt was the 11th chief executive in the nation's history to confront the third term problem. The issue played a major part in the heated campaign waged against him. Throughout the weeks of electioneering numerous demands were heard for a constitutional limit on the number of years a chief executive may serve.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt's success at the polls would intensify or diminish the urgency of such demands was uncertain. The president, however, has given the nation his assurance that his third term—which he sought because of the "great storm raging" in the world—would be his last.

Mr. Roosevelt never mentioned the third term issue in his brief campaign, but in his speech at Cleveland, O., last Saturday night he predicted that the nation would "reach the clear, sure footing ahead" in the next four years and that then "there will be another president in the White House."

And, as if to reply to the charges of dictator ambitions that his foes had raised against him, he continued by saying that there would be "many more presidents in the years to come, and I think that in those years to come that word 'presidents' will be a word to cheer the hearts of common men and women everywhere."

Before Mr. Roosevelt decided to carry the third term question to the electorate, Washington, Jefferson,

Three Lake Charles Men Face Trial In Alleged Income Violation

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6—(AP)—Selection of a jury was begun in federal court today for the oft-delayed trial of three Lake Charles men on charges of violating the income tax law in connection with alleged gambling activities.

Defendants are H. A. Mathews and C. M. Lewis, described in the indictment as operators of the "Match and Loung" club at Lake Charles, and George W. Woodard.

Among witnesses summoned is Mayor J. H. Handley of Lake Charles, named in the indictment as recipient of $11,0[illegible] from the "Match and Loung" club.

The trio was indicted by the federal grand jury here on September 18, 1939, on four counts.

PAINTER IS KILLED IN POLICE 'TRAP'

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 6—(AP)—A house painter who attempted, police said, to lure a 12-year-old girl into his automobile was shot and killed by Patrolman Arthur L. Shelby today after he had been captured in a prearranged trap.

The painter was identified as Leroy Boyd, 33, father of five children. Police records showed he had been arrested twice before in sex cases.

Boyd was shot through the heart after he leaped from his car, which was being used to take him to headquarters, and caused it to crash into a concrete underpass, slightly injuring Patrolman Lee Pollock and Policewoman Alice Whitney.

GREEKS CAPTURE ITALIAN TROOPS

Enter Albania, Capture Prisoners, Frontier Dispatches Say

(By Associated Press)

Frontier dispatches said Greek mountain fighters today entered the city of Koritza, in Albania, and captured thousands of the 30,000 Italian troops under siege there.

The reported seizure—if true—marked the first major victory in the 10-day-old Balkan conflict, and presumably disrupted the Italian supply route for a projected invasion into Western Macedonia.

Greece's high command said retreating Italian troops were shelled by their own tanks as Greek warriors stormed and captured still fortifications guarding Koritza.

A Greek communique said many Italian prisoners were taken in the battle of the Koritza Heights, along with artillery, howitzers and machine-guns.

The Greeks declared their lines were

VETERANS CALLED TO SESSION HERE

Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs Post 1869, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were requested Wednesday by Commander H. M. James to be present Thursday night at a very important meeting at the clubrooms, Sixth and Oak streets.

"A proposition to change the name of the post has arisen and has become very controversial, and this will be discussed at the meeting," Mr. James said. "We want to have everyone present."

An Armistice day parade will be discussed and committees will report on a recent minstrel show and a dance.

President Sweeps To Victory Against Republican Choice

Scattered Surveys Over Louisiana Fail To Give Accurate Account Of How Constitutional Measures Are Standing

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6—(AP)—The status of the 28 Louisiana constitutional amendments voted on yesterday remained in doubt today with less than half of the 261 New Orleans precincts tabulated and scattered surveys from over the state.

Governor Sam Jones' governmental reorganization amendment (No. 5) was among nine amendments which were receiving a favorable vote in New Orleans while the majorities were running against the 19 others in 101 of the 261 precincts.

The vote on No. 3 was for 16,713 and against 15,274.

Some of the amendments which were running a close race in New Orleans might be affected by the state vote since in some sections all or practically all of the amendments were reported carried in precincts heard from while in other state precincts all were defeated.

Lafayette reported that the yes column was leading on all amendments in 10 precincts out of 22 with the exception of the last, No. 28, increased pay of $1,200 a year for state legislators which was being given a drubbing throughout the state.

In Ouachita parish 40 out of 50 precincts were giving all the amendments a favorable vote while Avoyelles was approving all except No. 28.

Calcasieu parish (7 out of 46 precincts) opposed 17 of the proposed amendments and 11 seemed certain of carrying. No. 28 was being decisively beaten.

Reports from Claiborne and Lincoln parishes showed all amendments downed in two of the precincts while Bossier was splitting its vote.

Four precincts in Ponchatoula voted two to one against all of the amendments. St. Bernard parish supported all the proposals.

In New Orleans the following amendments, in addition to the reorganization plan, were leading for passage with majorities of from 1,000 up to nearly 9,000, the latter heavy vote being given No. 15, providing site for a coast guard station:

No. 1—Eliminating necessity of signing poll tax each year (18,955 to 13,414).

No. 3—Governmental reorganization.

No. 5—Reducing auto tax to $3 (16,973 to 14,784).

No. 7—Voting machines for New Orleans (nearly 3,000 majority).

No. 9—$7,000,000 bond for back pay for Confederate veterans (21,225 to 16,792).

Nos. 10 and 11, reorganizing board of L. S. U. and dock board carrying by approximately 3,000 and 2,000 votes respectively.

Among those trailing were civil service act (No. 2) 16,086 for to 16,645 against in 101 Orleans precincts; No. 4, increased income tax, trailing by 5,000 votes; No. 8, issuance of $10,000,000 of highway bonds, trailing by about 2,500; No. 25, to prohibit levy of an additional gasoline tax in New Orleans; No. 26, exempting banks from certain real estate taxation, losing heavily and No. 28, legislators extra pay, also heavily against.

AGAINST MEASURES

OAK GROVE, Nov. 6.—(Special)—West Carroll parish voters cast ballots against all but two of the 28 constitutional amendments in Tuesday's election, initial reports showed today.

(By Associated Press)

President Roosevelt, the precedent-breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions today with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slambang campaign.

Throughout last evening Willkie sat in his hotel room, analyzing the returns and watching the president amass commanding leads in virtually all the key states having big blocks of electoral votes. But grimly, he clung to a dwindling hope of victory, and finally he retired with the announcement that not until today would he have anything to say on the election's outcome.

Meanwhile, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's running mate, conceded a victory for Mr. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The president spent last evening at his Hyde Park home, where in 1932 and 1936 he saw himself elected to the presidency, and where, just as in both these years, his happy neighbors thronged the spreading lawns and serenaded him with bugles and drums.

Promptly at midnight, Mr. Roosevelt greeted the serenaders from the portico. "Full returns" were lacking, he said, but the situation looked "all right."

"We, of course, face difficult days," he said. "But I think you will find me in the future just the same Franklin Roosevelt you have known for years."

The full extent of the president's victory could not be measured finally in advance of a more complete tabulation of the votes of several states.

Nevertheless, at 9:45 a.m., CST, it appeared that his election had been accomplished with 468 of the country's electoral votes. The number required for election is 266. Indications were that his popular plurality would prove considerably less than the margin of more than 10,000,000 by which he was elected in 1936.

In addition to a substantial lead in New York, the president held the advantage in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Minnesota, New Jersey, California, and Illinois, among others. Willkie was leading in nine states: Colorado, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Vermont. The nine have 63 electoral votes.

Helped along by the president's

JURY STUDIES CASE OF MANNING M'GUIRE IN BENNETT SLAYING

The fate of Manning C. McGuire, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Bennie Bennett, was in the hands of a jury this afternoon.

The case was given to the jury shortly before noon after attorneys for the state and defense had concluded their arguments and Judge David I. Garrett had delivered his charge.

Bennett was slain in a West Monroe saloon in September. Attorneys for McGuire have contended he shot Bennett in self-defense.

---And So Mrs. W. Willkie Prepares For One Good Rest

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—The slim, youthful-looking wife of Wendell L. Willkie was at his side, still smiling, even as her husband was losing his fight for the presidency.

A friend put an arm around her and said, "Don't worry, honey."

She quickly replied, "I'm not worrying."

On their plans for the future:

"We haven't made plans for anything," she said, "except to take a vacation. That was to happen win, lose or draw."

In an interview late in the evening, she indicated that much as she wanted her husband to win, her personal preference for herself was a quiet life.

"I've never had a public life until this campaign," she said. "I do like my own privacy. I like to sit behind the post, or behind a big fat lady as I did yesterday at the movies."

Looking fresh after thousands of miles of travel with the candidate, she confessed, however, she was tired.

"I haven't slept for a long time, it seems to me. I certainly intend to get some sleep tonight."

As to "predictions," she said she had made none.

"I'm like Omar Khayyam. I live from day to day."

She wore a black street dress with a pale blue yoke, and no flowers. Quantities of flowers arrived during the day at her Fifth avenue home. She sent them all to hospitals.

She stayed in their hotel suite when her husband, with the vote mounting against him, went to the hotel ballroom about midnight to thank campaign workers and say, "Don't be afraid and never quit."

She heard his voice on the radio, and stopped greeting friends to listen.

"We—want—Willkie! We—want—Willkie!" came the chant from the crowd in the ballroom.

Edith Willkie turned to her friends and said, "I'm proud of him. I'm proud of the fight he made."

...VELT GETS A THIRD TERM

...Democrats kept control of both the house and senate.

With returns in many congressional districts still incomplete, the Democrats were certain of 237 house seats—19 more than the 218 needed for a bare majority—Republicans were sure of 114 and the American Labor party one. At this point Democrats had won 17 house seats now held by Republicans and Republicans had captured six house seats now held by Democrats, giving the Democrats a net gain of eleven.

Among the Republican house members who won reelection was Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, the party's national chairman.

Control of the senate was hardly in doubt because Democratic holdovers and unopposed candidates in the south were almost sufficient to assure a majority. However, on the face of incomplete returns, 16 Democrats and eight Republicans were sure of election to senate seats. In four of these races the outcome represented a shift from one party to the other. Combined, these shifts gave the Republicans a net gain of two.

Harold H. Burton of Ohio, Republican, defeated John McSweeney, Democrat, for the place now held by Democratic Senator Vic Donahey. In Nebraska, Republican Hugh A. Butler defeated Governor Robert L. Cochran, Democrat, for the seat now occupied by Senator Edward Burke, Democrat. Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., Delaware Republican, went down to defeat at the hands of James M. Tunnell, Sr., Democrat. Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, a Farmer-Laborite in the past, was reelected as a Republican.

Senator Robert M. (Young Bob) La Follette, Progressive who endorsed a third term for the president, pulled away from Republican Fred H Clausen in Wisconsin after trailing for many hours.

Late this morning, the still incomplete returns showed 11 Democrats and seven Republicans assured of election to governorships. The outcome in five of these contests represented a shift from one party to the other, giving the Democrats a net gain of one in governorships at this point.

Reports persisted that due to the present emphasis on a need for national unity in the face of foreign developments Mr. Roosevelt might ask his vanquished foe to assume a post of importance in connection with the defense program.

Certain it was that in many minds Willkie's defeat had hardly diminished his stature. The energy of his campaign commanded widespread admiration not only among his own followers but among his opponents, too.

As a result he is in excellent position to help members of congress shape Republican policy in the four years to come, during which period he will be his party's titular leader.

Although it was a campaign of many issues, two in particular were emphasized by the speeches of both candidates. Willkie charged that the president was leading the nation to war. This the president denied. The president assured the nation over and over that peace was his only aim.

Willkie contended that the election of the president for a third term together with a concentration of power in Washington might result in a dictatorship. Mr. Roosevelt said that the "storm" now raging over the world was the true reason why he was running for a third term, and that after the next four years the nation would have another president.

In great states and small, from New Hampshire to California, the citizens who exercised democracy's right of franchise yesterday seemingly rejected the Republican candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie by an overwhelming electoral majority and returned the New Deal to Washington with possibly greater power than heretofore.

Late reports indicated that not only the presidency but also some additional seats in the house and senate were gathered up in the Democratic vote harvest. With more than half of the 432 congressional contests decided, the Democrats had a net gain of six house seats. Eight Democrats and three Republicans were elected to the senate—where a Democratic majority was certain anyway—but close senatorial races developed in half a dozen states.

The tide of ballots ran heavily in Mr. Roosevelt's favor almost from the first—ballots he had asked as a "vote of confidence" in his administration, born in the domestic crisis year of 1933 and now given another four-year tenure in the international crisis year of 1940.

Yet the margins in some states continued close for many hours after returns started pouring in.

Indications were that the total vote cast broke all previous records despite unfavorable weather in some sections of the country. But the broken record which made this election unique was the return of a president to office for a third term.

The tradition which fell with Mr. Roosevelt's victory dated back almost to the founding of the republic when George Washington, in 1797, declined to stand for another four years in office in addition to the eight he already had served.

The very first vote report came from the village of Sharon, N. H. The 31 ballots, tabulated at 12 minutes after midnight (EST) Tuesday, were divided 24 for Willkie and seven for Roosevelt.

Eighteen hours later the real flow of returns began from every city, town and country crossroads in the nation. In many states the lead see-sawed now to Mr. Roosevelt, the "champ," as Willkie once called him, and now to the Republican challenger.

But from the start the president, his totals swelled by the sure votes of the "solid south," was out in front and his indicated electoral vote was well over the 266 required for election.

On the basis of one of the first general tabulations in early evening the states to appear in the Democratic column were Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Willkie's home state of Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Maine, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas. In the Republican column were Colorado, Connecticut, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska and New Hampshire.

Indiana, however, proved a hard state to hold, switching allegiance several times as the count progressed—usually by a mere few hundred votes.

Off to a good start, Mr. Roosevelt soon captured the lead in Connecticut from the Republicans and added Maryland and Virginia. Willkie took the lead in Maine—and held it although the Democratic total there exceeded expectations. He also temporarily acquired Rhode Island and Illinois.

Ohio, like Illinois, first went into the Republican column. Then Pennsylvania started the march of populous states for the Democrats and Willkie's lead in Ohio dwindled until the count turned into a Democratic majority. Republicans looked with desperate hope toward New York, where late closing of the polls delayed all hint of how the vote would go for them in the all important Empire state.

By 9 p.m., CST, Mr. Roosevelt had gained the lead in states with 264 electoral votes while Willkie was mustering 121 electoral votes.

New York, among others, still was silent but the Republican candidate steadily built up a commanding lead in New Jersey—home of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee. At times his New Jersey vote was as much as two to one over Mr. Roosevelt's. This was a ray of hope for Jersey's voting habits normally parallel those of New York in a presidential year.

About this time Mr. Roosevelt telephoned from Hyde Park to Edward J. Flynn, the Democratic national chairman in New York City, that he was "very confident" of reelection.

In New York City, a still optimistic Willkie commented that the contest was a "horse race." The result, he said, would not be known until Wednesday.

However, when 10 p.m., CST came, Mr. Roosevelt was ahead in states with 427 electoral votes and the Willkie total had dwindled to 104. Among the Republican states was Vermont, with its three electoral votes. That state, which alone kept Maine company in the wide open spaces of the Republican column in the 1936 presidential election, was the first to report a count completed. The result was 78,355 for Willkie and 64,244 for Roosevelt.

By midnight President Roosevelt had a narrow lead in the first rush of returns from New York. The state and its prize of 47 electoral votes as yet belonged to nobody. However, in the Roosevelt fold at that time were such populous and powerful states as Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, California, Ohio, Missouri, and again the capricious Indiana. The president's tentative electoral vote then stood at 440 and Willkie's at 91.

Newspapers which supported Willkie's candidacy meanwhile began to concede a Democratic triumph. These included the New York Times, the Detroit Free Press, the Kansas City Star, the Portland Oregonian, and the Baltimore Sun.

Not long after midnight the Democratic scene moved up tentatively to 433 electoral votes, while Willkie held on to 11 states that added up to 98 electoral ballots. Those states were Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota and Vermont.

A crowd was gathered in Willkie's hotel suite and he addressed them briefly. He told them not to be "afraid or disheartened because I am not.

"The principles for which we fought prevail as surely as the principles of truth always prevail."

Early today Mr. Roosevelt's lead in New York state which has 47 electoral votes had grown to more than a quarter million in nearly 6,000,000 ballots counted. In Pennsylvania, the Republican state chairman conceded that state's 36 electoral votes had gone to the Democratic candidate.

DEMOCRATS WIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Democrats won 14 victories and the Republicans marked up seven—with a net gain of one for the Democrats—in 33 contests for governorships yesterday.

The Democrats ousted two New England Republican governors—Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut and William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island—along with Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan, foe of "high life" drinking.

Robert A. Hurley won in Connecticut, J. Howard McGrath in Rhode Island and Murray D. Van Wagoner in Michigan.

Partly offsetting these switches, however, the Republicans won seats in two Mid-Western states. Dwight Griswold defeated Terry Carpenter in Nebraska and Dwight H. Green won from Harry B. Hershey in Illinois.

Democrats were leading in Idaho, Indiana, Missouri, Utah and Washington, while Republicans were ahead in Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Montana and Wisconsin.

Victorious Democratic gubernatorial candidates included Eugene Talmadge, Georgia; former Senator Matthew M. Neely, West Virginia; W. Lee O'Daniel, Tex., and John E. Miles, New Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The great tide of votes for President Roosevelt was interpreted today as insuring uninterrupted continuation of an American foreign policy predicated on all aid "short of war" for Britain, and a firm stand against the policies and acts of aggressor nations.

The diplomatic consensus, too, was that it would add momentum to the Pan-American program to strengthen the defenses of the western hemisphere.

Most observers took it as a foregone conclusion that Cordell Hull, co-author and spokesman of the administration's international policy, would remain as secretary of state in the new administration.

Since the foreign policies advocated by Wendell Willkie, the Republican candidate, closely paralleled the basic foreign policies of the Roosevelt administration, the expectation also was that, with the election past history, the national ranks would close up again, with Democrats and Republicans presenting a common front in American relations with the rest of the world.

The European war and its ramifications, particularly those which might touch American interests in the western hemisphere already have created a distinct "coolness" in relations between the United States and the axis powers. The attitude adopted by the American government in supplying with and assisting Great Britain has been resented in both Berlin and Rome.

The United States has exchanged 50 destroyers (urgently needed by Britain) for naval base sites on British possessions in this hemisphere, and daily has been increasing both the manufacture and shipments of goods and war supplies of all kinds for England.

Numerous other political, economic and financial questions involving American relations with Britain, Germany, Italy, and nations defeated in Nazi blitzkriegs, complicated the foreign policy picture.

Two immediate questions of direct interest to the United States remained unsettled as the votes were counted. They involved American protests against Italian bombing of American owned oil property in South Arabia and a bombing in the Sudan in which an American missionary was killed.

With the spread of the war into the eastern Mediterranean the United States must take further measures to insure the protection of Americans in Greece, the Balkans, and other countries in that area, and arrange for their repatriation if possible. Application of neutrality act provisions to embattled Greece likewise is pending.

The axis success in Europe has caused officials of the United States and the other American republics to fear extension of the war to the Western hemisphere.

To guard against that, the United States has signed a joint defense pact with Canada and likewise has entered into negotiations with Central and South American republics which may lead to similar defensive agreements.

France's defeat and the peculiarity resulting from German-French negotiations that the status of French colonies in this hemisphere may be changed, has raised questions which are now under discussion between American and French governments. The American neutrality patrol established to prevent encroachment on American territorial interests and waters has been providing actual protection pending any developments.

Another question resulting from France's fall and German-French negotiations now in progress—the future disposition of the French fleet—also has been under close watch by American officials.

The major questions in foreign affairs in the Far East facing President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull sprang from developments resulting from Japan's "new order in Asia" policy.

That policy, incubated in Japan's invasion of China and extended to French Indo-China after France's fall, now threatens to be extended southward where American officials consider it would imperil the Philippines, as well as British and Dutch colonies in the East Indies, Malay, India and Australia whence the United States obtains many strategic raw materials.

In an attempt to stop Japan's actions, the United States has already imposed an embargo on scrap iron, and "moral" embargoes on shipments of war materials and supplies to Japan.

A major question now facing the administration was whether to reinforce the earlier embargoes by prohibiting exports of oil, a vital necessity for the Japanese war machine. A companion topic concerns what, if any, additional financial, economic or other assistance may be given China.

New York's Museum of Modern Art recently received 3,000 miles of film from a newsreel concern, covering the 20 years from 1910 to 1930.

holding firmly on both ends of the 100-mile front, despite the superiority of Italian arms and manpower.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Fascist invasion forces had driven off Greek attacks between Lake Presba and Kapestica Pass, in the north, after violent fighting.

Authoritative quarters in London said the Italians had not yet launched their main offensive against Greece, but that the real attack was to be expected at any moment—probably on the Kalamas river front, above Ioannina (Janina), in Northwest Greece.

British RAF warplanes bombed the Naples area in Southern Italy during the night, the Fascist high command disclosed, killing 14 persons and wounding 10. It was the third raid on Naples in less than a week.

Other RAF bombers struck punishing blows at the big German naval base at Emden, the London air ministry reported, starting 30 spectacular fires among petroleum tanks there and heavily bombing shipyards at Bremerhaven and Bremen.

RAF night raiders also pounded the German-held forts across the English channel at Boulogne, Calais, Dunkerque, Antwerp and Flushing.

London itself underwent the longest night airraid alarm of the war, with "lone wolf" Nazi fliers droning overhead from dusk yesterday until the all clear signal finally sounded at 8:30 a.m.—a foretaste of what may be in store for the bomb-scarred capital in the long winter nights ahead. Next weeks' English nights will lengthen to approximately 14 hours.

In the wake of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's grave comment yesterday on British shipping losses, indications arose of a possible extension of the German blockade of England.

The fate of a British convoy attacked by a German raider in mid-Atlantic was undetermined, with no further word from the 16,698-ton passenger liner Rangitiki and the freighter Cornish City after their radio distress call yesterday that they were "being gunned" by an enemy ship of the "Admiral Graf Spee class."

Shipping men said both of Germany's remaining pocket battleships, the Luetzow and Admiral Scheer, have been rumored operating in Atlantic waters.

Coincidentally, the German high command asserted that 7,160,200 tons of "enemy shipping" have been sunk by Nazi warcraft since the outbreak of the war 14 months ago.

In the Balkan struggle, the Fascist high command by implication acknowledged that the Greeks had seized the offensive in the Koritza sector, reporting that the Italian air force had swept into action to help repel Greek columns attacking along the "southern branches of Lake Presba," 15 miles northeast of Koritza.

Dispatches from Yugoslavia said the Greeks were shelling Koritza as a preliminary to a direct attack to capture the city and the 30,000 Italian soldiers still holding out.

The Greek high command reported "brisk cannonading" all along the snow-bound mountain front.

Another Greek communique said 291 civilians were killed and 690 injured in Greek cities bombed and machine-gunned in the first nine days of the war.

The bombing of the Yugoslav town of Bitolj, northeast of the Greek-Albanian frontier, was blamed upon the Italians by the Greek communique. It said Italian planes from Albania were seen heading into Yugoslavia yesterday after circling over northern Greek towns. The Italians disclaimed responsibility.

On instructions from London, British authorities at Hongkong abandoned the compulsory removal of British women and children from the crown colony. Restrictions remained in effect, however, preventing the return for the time being of persons already sent from Hongkong, mostly to Australia.

Carnegie Hall in New York is celebrating its 15th anniversary this season.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this also helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Did you buy YOUR car on "Millinery"?

YOU hear it said often nowadays that it's millinery that sells automobiles.

All right—let's put it up to one who knows. Did you buy your car on nick-nacks, trick devices, novelties?

We don't think so.

We believe that while considering style, and room, and comfort—you really picked your car on what it would do on the road!

Now, we take our hats off to no car for being smarter-looking than Buick. We'll match our product against any for room, appointments, fine finish, comfort.

But beyond all that, we challenge the whole field to equal Buick on its all-round performance ability.

On its power—on its pull—on its pick-up—on its easy handling including freedom from shifting—yes, and on its thrift.

Nowhere will you find a car that does so much so well and so frugally.

You'll find novelties in the new Buicks of course, but they're not the chief attraction. Instead you'll see the two big basic engineering developments of the year—FIREBALL design and Compound Carburetion.

They give you an automobile that packs a real thrill—better come in and learn more about it.

JOHN GARNER FAILS TO CAST HIS VOTE

Election--Here And There

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Here and there with John Q. Voters on election day:

County Clerk G. E. Wade of Oakland, Calif., was bothered by voters who complained that Al Smith's name was left off the presidential ballot. The 1928 Democratic nominee had supported Wilkie in the campaign.

The Blue and the Gray still were at odds. General Julius F. Hoppel, 91, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, said he had voted a "straight Democratic ticket." Homer Lea, 99, colorful commander of the Grand Army of the Republic since 1937, said he had voted a straight Republican ticket since 1876, and continued in charge on the 19th.

Rabbi Nathan Wolf again was the only voter in a New York district in Times Square. It cost about $600 to register the ballot. He has been the only voter in his district for the last nine elections, except for one.

The Country 'Stands Pat'

The people have spoken.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is to be president of the United States for the next four years.

The American people, in riding rough-shod over the tradition against third terms for presidents, have given President Roosevelt a tribute that should at once make him very proud and very humble. Many people have believed honestly that election of Roosevelt would mean the end of American democracy. The responsibility rests all the heavier on Roosevelt to demonstrate quite clearly that these fears were groundless.

The strong campaign by Willkie should be a warning to the president. One of the arguments advanced in his behalf has been that his long experience in public life and in the presidency itself have taught him what may and what may not be done. The clarity and power of opposition which developed during the campaign are a clear signal for an end to miscellaneous experimentation, and concentration on such industrial progress as will solve the one most pressing domestic problem—unemployment.

As to foreign affairs, it seems clear that American prestige abroad will have been enhanced by the people's decision to stand by the president. The weakness of American foreign policy has always been that other countries never know when a change of administration may bring changes in policy.

The imperatives of the international situation, however, are such today that our foreign policy is pretty much what it must be. Willkie's virtual adherence to it was the proof of that.

No president ever made a more solemn pledge that the country had no commitments abroad; none ever pledged more explicitly a peace policy so long as the actions of others left peace remotely possible. These pledges the re-elected president must not forget.

There is a task before us—a double task involving maximum military preparedness at the fastest possible pace, and also the rebuilding of a better economic structure on the firmest possible foundation. These are tasks which require a united people for successful completion. The election results show that the people are determined to continue to move forward along the general line laid down during the past eight years. To the weight of a third consecutive verdict to this effect is now added the international situation, demanding the utmost cooperation from every American.

It will be forthcoming. It is in the best tradition of democratic government to accept with grace the verdict of the people, and to support whole-heartedly the president who is the choice of the majority.

In such a course lies the only assurance of victory over our domestic problems and of the stability of free government in a world which has gravely challenged it.

Another Recruit

Cooperation with the government in the building of national defense is mounting day by day. We have already told of how General Electric has promised to undertake all normal risks in defense production, and in abnormal risks asks only to be guaranteed against loss.

Now Eastman Kodak steps up with a new approach to the question. It offers to refund voluntarily to the government "any profit it might make in excess of 10 per cent of cost." The 10 per cent is, of course, already subject to income and excess profit taxes. Evidence of the literal sincerity of the offer is in the fact that Eastman made a substantial refund to the government as the result of a similar pledge in 1917.

Patriotism is not confined to the men who carry a gun. It is found in every walk of life. We know men who were killed by overwork in civilian war activities in 1918 just as surely as any man was killed by enemy bullets. It would be so again if war came, and increasing assurances of full cooperation in the defense drive make it clearer every day.

A Personal Item

Some idea of the enlarged place the plane is commanding in the travel picture is conveyed in this personal item in a recent issue of a New York paper:

"Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived at LaGuardia Field last night from the West Coast where she was visiting her son James and daughter Anna. Mrs. Roosevelt told reporters she would go to her town house at East Sixty-first street last night and then continue on to Hyde Park today to join the President. Shortly before Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the field her son Franklin Jr. flew in from Detroit where he had conferred with Democratic leaders. He waited to greet his mother, who landed at 11:05 p.m."

Some idea of the revolution that has occurred appears when anyone imagines how wholly incredible such a personal item would have been at the turn of the century.

Regretting Lost Freedom

People have lost their freedom from time to time down through the long centuries. But they have never failed to regret that loss and to strive to regain liberty.

The world has changed, the editors of "Das Reich," a Berlin newspaper, seems to believe. For this paper is urging the people of the Netherlands and of Scandinavia to "cease regretting their lost freedom and be glad to join the German Reich. . . ."

People are stubborn about things like that. They may be conquered. They may be held down by military occupation. They may be denied freedom.

But the longing for lost freedom is something that is not so easily removed as a pair of tonsils. It lies down deep in man, out of reach of the surgeon's knife—or even of the bayonet.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

DEALCOHOLIZED FOOTBALL

How football has changed since prohibition! Sobriety has gone so far at these week-end spectacles that a drunk attracts attention. Under the dry era a sober spectator was the one who was a sensation.

Football is no longer something associated with a bottle, a lapse of memory and a week-end of bismuth, regrets, apologies and low visibility. It can be taken dry again.

The game that was, under prohibition, largely a boon to old bottle collectors and the alcoholic institutes has swung so far the other way that it is nothing for a fan to look another fan's flask in the face and say, "No, thanks."

Observing the scenes at the football games these week-ends, it is hard to remember that only a few seasons back, and for more than a decade, the scenes in the stands were a combination of Dante's "Inferno," Shubert's "Hellzapoppin," the "Last Days of Pompeii" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

All it lacked was an adequate supply of police wagons.

It took a staff of hundreds to sweep up and cart away the broken glass after every game. The oversized flask was in its glory, but it was considered a little reactionary not to bring along a quart bottle.

Those were the years when thousands of fans never got to their seats sober and never got back to their own autos unassisted.

You could turn to the fan at your right or left and ask, "What's the score?" and get the reply, "Is that so? You mind your business and I'll mind mine."

Compulsory equipment on the football trip included corkscrews, paper cups, non-leakable suitcases, scintifracation disks and a vocabulary limited in the last period to "Leggo," "Izzat so?" and "You and who else, buddy?"

For every football player carried off the field there were fifty carried out of the stands.

It was no novelty to see a Princeton man wind up at the Harvard game with Yale colors, or vice versa. Or versa vice.

The rooting had that strange quality found when at one and the same time you hear a street fight, a political speech on a faulty radio, a rumble of trucks over a wooden bridge and the finals in the Interstate Barber Shop Quartet contest.

The feature of football in those days was the great game of "Auto, auto, who's got the wrong auto, and what of it?" played in the parking spaces after the last gridiron hero had fallen and the last bottle had clattered down the stone steps.

If you got home in the car you started out in it was a lucky break. Days after the contest the fan who went to the game in a pink sedan discovered that he had come home in a blue town car.

But it always worked out all right. Not liking either blue or pink, he could change it for a red one the following Saturday.

What an era! What an age! What a nightmare! This is out the hall, boys! Now we can see it.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

PARENTAL LOVE IS CHILD'S RIGHT

When two people bring a child into the world they create along with him a duty for themselves. They put a lifelong obligation upon themselves to see this child through life until he is able to go alone. When either parent willfully disregards this obligation he has discredited his humanity. No grown-up person with an ethical sense could disregard his obligations to the child he helped bring into life.

Let us dismiss the instances where insanity, drunkenness and infectious disease make marital relations impossible. But how about these fathers and mothers who put off and take on marriage relations, have children, as casually as they might go shopping? What have they to say about their children who are homeless, fatherless or motherless? Children deprived of the things most necessary for their happiness—the security of a good home, good parents, affectionate care?

Somebody must take over the care of the children when one or both parents surrender it. That is not erasing the injury done the children. A new home is not the real one. A new guardian is certainly not the real father and mother. Nor is school a home and family. There is no substitute for home in this life. Nothing can change the fact that this child is the child of this father and mother and to them he clings, from them he had his being, from them he should have spiritual and material support. That is his right bestowed upon him when his parents created him by their own act, by their own choice.

The children who are deserted by the divorce action are unhappy and often become problem children. Many are sent to school, sent there for instruction and protection when home failed. In their bewilderment they try to find a way of comfort, some place in life where they can belong. They belong at home and there is no home. Fear becomes resentment and resentment makes for bad behavior.

"I can do nothing with this boy. He is highly intelligent but he will do nothing he thinks we want him to do. He has reached the place where he won't take a bath, won't attend recitations, won't budge to the right or the left if he thinks we want him to. We don't know what to do."

"Where is his father?"

"He is in the west and his mother is in the south, divorced. The boy was to make his home in school."

The boy, handsome, healthy, keenly intelligent, a boy to make any man's heart proud, said, "It's this way. Every kid has his father. They tell me what their fathers do, what they say and all. They tell me how they go on trips with their fathers and the good times they have with them. They ask me, 'Where's your Dad?' and what can I say? I've got nobody and I wish I were dead."

The life of a child, his success in the future, is in the hands of his father and mother. That fact ought to make some of the heedless ones take a second thought. "Woe to that man by whom the offense cometh."

If your youngster "simply won't do what he's told" you probably are taking the wrong way with him. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Obedience." Send for it, enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

WASHINGTON. She'd a been [illegible] page in Bill Bowes.

There were some who called it conscientious objection. There were some who merely knew a good thing when they saw it. There were some who were just plain dumb. Among the latter was Pierce Jon Ross, [illegible] the House of Representatives with a yelp.

The pigeon bill was [illegible] would have made it [illegible] punishable by $ [illegible] pigeon in flight.

It was introduced in the House by Representative Joseph L. Pfeifer, [illegible] and himself a fancier of homing pigeons. He pointed out that the bill [illegible] would not stop [illegible] ment was [illegible] which [illegible] defense [illegible] means of [illegible] ing pigeon always gets through.

Passed By Senate

Senator Wagner also of New York had the bill given a rush [illegible] the Senate as [illegible] Regulations. It passed both houses.

The president said in his veto message that it seemed like an unnecessary law and that if [illegible] need should arise for the use [illegible] there would be plenty of time to [illegible] act it later.

"I am inclined to think there are no Americans or at least very few of them who would deliberately shoot or capture a homing pigeon. I think there are practically no people who would deliberately pretend to send a message to the war head of a homing pigeon. After all, homing pigeons do not directly resemble any game birds."

Story Behind It

On the face of it I'll string along with the president. None of the things says not to bag a homing pigeon and its message who would trouble with fear at the prospect of a $500 fine.

But if I have my pigeon in a straight line there's a story behind this story . . . and here it is.

In Brooklyn and other communities there's a widespread pigeon racket, perpetrated by a sort of Black Hand of Pigeondom. Those fiends who prey on the pigeon fanciers have devised intricate ways of capturing the homing buds.

Sometimes they send up their own flocks nearby during exercise periods and thus snare a few dozen from the purebred Antwerps or homers.

Sometimes they net them or stun them with minute shot and light charges from rifles or shotguns.

They examine the band, find the owner, call him up and give him the "Say, Mister, I just found your pigeon. I'll bring him back but I'm way across town and it'll cost a dollar to get there. Will you pay it?"

Fanciers Furious

This pigeon snatching for ransom has the fanciers furious. Since their feathered pets are important to armies in wartime, they didn't see why the government shouldn't take a hand. Hence the bill.

Where the pigeon fanciers made their mistake was in failure to provide a sentence that would have made pigeon grabbers tremble in their boots. Death before a firing squad for squab napers there would have been a sentence severe enough to make enemy spies, and even Brooklyn Blackhanders think once or twice.

I agree with the president, but I sympathize with Dr. Pfeifer and his friends. They do have a cause. I particularly sympathize with Dr. Pfeifer for this is the second time he has championed a lost cause. Last year he introduced and saw defeated a bill to provide that all gravestones in national cemeteries should be of the same height.

'MACHINE' POLITICS TAKES TOLL IN IOWA

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 6 (AP) "Machine" politics took its toll in Iowa's election booths Tuesday.

A Cedar Rapids woman entered a voting machine, pulled the master lever without indicating her choices, came out sobbing that she had lost her vote. Sympathetic election officials allowed her to try again.

In Cedar Falls, where voting machines were used for the first time, Democrats found a half hour after the polls opened that them printed instructions on how to use the machines carried the explanatory sentence "pull the Republican lever."

In one Waterloo precinct the election judges inadvertently left a "do not touch" sign hanging for 10 minutes on the Republican county ticket lever. It was hung there last night while the machine was being checked.

According to reports recently received, during the early part of 1941, 1,560 airplanes a month will come from Canada's aircraft plants.

Parish Food Dealers Will Have 6,819 New Customers, Officials Say

The wholesale and retail food dealers of Ouachita parish may look forward to having 6,819 new customers by approximately January 1, according to F. N. Thompson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Food Stamp Plan committee.

This number represents the total number of families which will receive free blue stamps through the food stamp plan in the form of a direct grant or accompanying the purchase of orange stamps, he stated.

A breakdown of this figure shows that 2,081 of these persons are clients of the state department of public welfare, 1,238 are WPA cases and 3,500 are commodity only cases. A majority of the commodity only cases represent rural families certified for relief due to the unusual short crop this year.

Estimating the 6,819 relief cases or families of average size of all the families in the state on relief as 3.4 persons, 23,184 individuals will receive some form of relief for this winter, he stated.

On estimating the population of Ouachita parish at 60,000 (1940 census figures for the parish not yet available), more than one-third of the total population of the parish will receive relief in some form this winter.

Under the food stamp plan the present commodity warehouse on Grand street will be abolished. A report shows that 40 carloads of merchandise have been received at the warehouse since its opening some 10 days ago and 65 additional carloads are to be received during the month of November, Mr. Thompson stated.

Translated into business for wholesale and retail food dealers of this parish the abolishment of the commodity warehouse and the division of these commodities through regular business outlets will produce approximately a half million dollars of additional business annually, George D. Hudnall, president of Chamber of Commerce announced today.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

British Premier Churchill's grave statement yesterday regarding the increasing Nazi submarine menace to English shipping was to my mind in effect a bid in broad hint, if you will, for more American destroyers with which to meet this very real danger.

The premier told of the "gigantic task" imposed on the royal navy by the U-boat campaign and other calls of war, and warned "we must expect that next year a still heavier U-boat attack will be made upon us." He declared bluntly that if the formidable threat to seaborne traffic were neglected it "would touch the life of the state" and in the midst of this grimly realistic picture he remarked:

"The 50 American destroyers are rapidly coming into service just when they are most needed, and the main flow of the new construction started at the outbreak of the war is now coming along."

This isn't the first time by any means that the subject of the destroyers has arisen. Only last Sunday First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander, after expressing thanks for the American warships, added:

"I shall be equally thankful for any more that can be spared."

The point of all this, of course, is that destroyers are the handy men of the navy and are vital in dealing with submarines.

That the submarine threat to England is very real there can be no doubt, as I have emphasized time and again in this column. Hitler has unleashed a terrific drive, in which Italy is participating, with the idea of establishing a counter-blockade and literally starving England into submission.

The Nazi chief's hopes are based, of course, on the fact that Britain is mainly dependent on seaborne traffic for all her supplies—a vulnerability for which her navy is her protection.

He has a notable precedent in Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign in the World war which came so close to strangling England that Admiral Jellicoe, commander of the grand fleet, warned the then prime minister of disaster unless the menace were checked. I was in England when she had not more than six weeks' supply of food on hand (probably considerable less, in fact) and the position wasn't nice.

The British don't admit anything like the losses in shipping sustained in the World war—but they are beginning to pile up. In the last conflict England lost just over 7,500,000 tons, and the Nazis claim that already she has lost 7,000,000 tons in this war. From my own estimates based on British official figures, I should say that the admiralty might be prepared to admit to the destruction of perhaps a bit more than 2,600,000 tons.

However, the British have a fresh worry in that Hitler has cut loose a whole flock of new submarines which the Nazis have been turning out in mass production. These submersibles are said to be small and incapable of long voyages but quite adequate to prey on British shipping in waters close to their new French bases along the English channel. In addition it is reported that the axis partners may come into a gift of some 75 submarines from the French navy.

All this piles up to a lot of grief for England.

preparation and presentation of a false and fraudulent partnership return on income of Mitchem and Lewis for the calendar year 1938, by reporting a net income of $31,676.79 instead of the "correct" income of $66,488.57.

The second count charges Mitchem with attempting to defeat and evade an income tax of $1,979 due from his one-half of the community income for 1938, and Lewis and Woodard are charged as aiders and abettors.

The third count charges Lewis similarly with evasion of tax of $957.27, and charges Mitchem and Woodard as aiders and abettors.

Count four charges the three with conspiracy to defraud the government of income taxes aggregating $4,915.72 due from Mitchem and his wife and from Lewis for 1938 by filing the allegedly false partnership return and individual returns that are the subject of the other three indictments.

The trial was called for Monday after many delays, but was postponed until today because of illness of Sam W. Smith of Lake Charles, a government witness.

Leon Hubert, assistant United States district attorney, is prosecuting and defense counsel includes S. W. Plaisance, Sr., and Wright Matthews of Lake Charles for Mitchem and Lewis, and Jacob H. Morrison of New Orleans and Griffin T. Hawkins and Thomas M. Conerly of Lake Charles for Woodard.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6—(AP)—President Roosevelt carried Ohio by more than [illegible] votes but returns early today put the Republican candidates for governor, United States senator and three of the five other state offices well out in front.

Tabulation of 8,038 of 8,875 precincts gave Roosevelt 1,548,587, Wendell L. Willkie 1,456,476.

In the governor's race 6,981 precincts gave Governor John W. Bricker, Republican, 1,348,551, Martin L. Davey, Democrat, 1,093,599.

The results from 6,987 precincts in the United States senate contest were: Harold H. Burton, Republican, 1,372,-341, John McSweeney, Democrat, 1,-076,687.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 6—(AP)—The Mexican government and public received with obvious satisfaction today the news that President Roosevelt's reelection for a third term appeared assured.

Government officials asserted the president's continuation in office would augur well for a "just and mutual" solution of outstanding issues between the two countries and the rapid evolution of a program for joint military and economic defense of the Western Hemisphere.

The public followed news of the election closely, and the newspaper Excelsior, Mexico City's leading daily, devoted nearly three pages to the outcome.

United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels said:

"There never has been a doubt the American people would register a vote of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt."

LONDON, Nov. 6—(AP)—London newspapers today hailed President Roosevelt's lead for reelection as a blow at Adolf Hitler and welcome news for Britain.

An editorial in the Evening Star said, "All the influence which Hitler was able to bring to bear was thrown against him (Roosevelt)," and added:

"We heartily welcome the American decision. Germany cannot mistake its implications. It is one of a growing number of signs that the tide is setting against tyranny and will finally engulf it."

The Evening News, whose front page proclaimed "Roosevelt victorious," declared editorially: "Every vote cast yesterday was a vote against Hitler. * * * We ourselves can be thankful the campaign is ended. America will quickly get back again and without any of the delays that might have come from the sending of a new man to the White House."

The London newspapers gave the vote the most prominence they ever accorded an American election.

Great Gathering Of Women At Meeting

Women From Every Section Of Louisiana Meet For State Convention This Week

The most important single event remaining on the year's calendar for Federated Women's Clubs of Louisiana is the state convention in Alexandria, November 7, 8, 9.

Every federated club in the state will be represented at this great gathering of women who are looking forward to one of the most constructive and most ambitious programs in the history of the organization.

Monroe will boast a splendid representation of club women, several of whom will take an important part in the three-day program. The Fifth district will be represented by Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. J. R. White and Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

Mrs. George Holland, Mrs. A. S. Gunter and Mrs. W. C. Ekholm will represent the Welcome Branch Book club. Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., and Mrs. C. R. Tidwell will represent the Miro Book club. The Monroe Literary club will be represented by Mrs. P. E. Massey and Mrs. R. L. Ross. The Review club will be represented by Mrs. C. B. Braun and the Literary Guild by Mrs. Clifford Johnson. Mrs. J. M. Menefee will represent the Current Literature club.

One of the highlights, socially, of the convention program will be the golden jubilee birthday dinner honoring pioneer club women.

Every right-minded woman in the state of Louisiana should approve the resolutions to be presented at this year's convention. Outstanding, perhaps, is the following resolution to be presented by Mrs. Joseph Friend, chairman of department of international relations: "That the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs in convention assembled at Alexandria, November, 1940, approve the development of a modernized and forward-looking program of national defense; and further urge that sufficient appropriation be given the federal bureau of investigation to continue its work of investigating and uncovering subversive and un-American activities; and be it further resolved

"That we call upon our members to face the present situation with clear thinking and an alert awareness of their individual responsibility in their homes and in their organizations for maintaining an unswerving loyalty to democratic principles and to our representative form of government."

Mrs. F. G. Stubbs returned home Tuesday from Rochester, Minn., where she spent several enjoyable weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Lynch and Dr. Lynch. En route home Mrs. Stubbs enjoyed a week's visit with her son, Barry Stubbs, a student in the law department of Tulane University, New Orleans.

Monroe will be well represented at the Louisiana State Nurses' Association annual meeting at Hotel Bentley in Alexandria next week with Mrs. Bert Williams, Jr., president of the Monroe District Nurses' Association, and Miss Sybil Renaud, member of the state board of directors, leaving early Monday morning to be present at the advisory council and board of directors meeting. Others attending the meeting from Monroe will be: Mrs. Adele Lutz, president of St. Francis alumni, and Miss Ida Walker, Mrs. Ruby Pettit, Mrs. Grace Cooper, Mrs. Elmer Miller, Miss Sara Scalia, Miss Lucille Johnson, Mrs. Opal Chase and Mrs. Fannie Oliver.

There will be a panel discussion on "What Can We Do to Stimulate Professional Activity Among Nurses?" at the private duty session Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Chase of Monroe will represent the private duty nurses in this discussion.

Miss Sybil Renaud will take part in the Red Cross nurses' program on Tuesday. Her subject will be "The Relationship of the State and Local Committees to the Chapters."

Claiming prominence among the distinguished speakers appearing on the convention program will be Annabelle Peterson, president of the Graduate Nurses Association of the District of Columbia, and Margaret L. Pinkerton, dean of Duke University school of nursing. Another prominent speaker will be Calista Banwarth, a graduate of Bedford College, London, England. Miss Banwarth took a two-year course of study at the Florence Nightingale Foundation at Bedford College and for the past year has been assistant to the executive secretary of the International Council of Nurses. Miss Banwarth will exhibit pictures of the International Foundation School during the course of her speech.

The members of the Lambda Kappa Club met in the spacious living room of Mrs. Carl Earle's lovely plantation home to discuss rug making and the almost forgotten art of spinning.

Mrs. H. A. Mangham presided in her usual gracious manner. The club collect was repeated in unison, and during the business meeting the following delegates to the state convention were elected: Alternate for the president, Mrs. G. F. Purvis; first delegate, Miss Robbie Binion; alternate Mrs. Hugh Stodghill; second delegate, Mrs. Jame. C. Sartor, alternate Mrs. Frank Hatch, Sr.

Mrs. Earle, leader of the afternoon's program, introduced Mrs. F. C. Holden of Monroe, well known authority on the subject of hooked rugs. She gave a most interesting and most constructive talk on the origin and history of hooked rugs. She said, "The first hooked rugs came from England and depicted marine life. These first rugs are now in private collections or in museums. Later the patterns were taken from China, especially Spevic, or from gardens, and often barnyard scenes were used. The dye material were very crude, usually taken from vegetables, roots and tree bark. These first rugs were used as hearth rugs as the English dearly love to gather around the hearth."

Mrs. Earle presented Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, who entertained the club with vocal solos accompanied by Mrs. C. M. Noble. Her first number was "Clouds," followed by "Daddy's Sweetheart" and "The Old Spinning Wheel."

Miss Earle brought her spinning wheel to the living room and Mr. George B. Franklin demonstrated the art of spinning as it was done in olden days. Rugs were on display that had been made from homespun yarn. A handsome display of various types of hooked rugs, in conventional and floral design held the interest of the members and their guests.

After the program, Mrs. Earle served delicious refreshments to the members and the following guests: Mrs. J. H. Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. R. R. Reames, Mrs. Stevens, Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, Mrs. Charles Noble, Mrs. Lesley Richardson, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. George B. Franklin, and Mrs. F. C. Holden of Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Moore of Ferriday, La., announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita Louise, to Charles A. Parkman, formerly of St. Joseph, now of Dearborn, Mich. The marriage will take place on Friday, November 8, in Dearborn. Mr. Parkman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parkman of Tensas parish and is well known throughout this section. For several years he has been employed at the Ford Motor Company's plant in Dearborn. The couple will reside in the Michigan city.

Miss Ima Lucille Lagrone left the first of the week for Temple, Tex., where she will visit relatives until the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pierce and daughter, Elizabeth, of Detroit, Mich., are making a tour of the South and while en route to the gulf coast will spend a few days with Mrs. Alice Nelson Briggs.

Harry Strong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strong, will now be permitted to receive visitors in his room at St. Francis Sanitarium, where he is convalescing from a recent major operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds McWilliams and children are now established in their home on K street, which has been in the hands of contractors and decorators for the past three months.

Dr. and Mrs. Clifton Flinn and Mrs. Gordon Elliott enjoyed a week-end visit in Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Lonnie Sevario is convalescing from a recent operation at the Vaughan-Wright-Rendel Clinic.

NOT ALL WASTE

OLIVE HILL, Ky.—(AP)—Olive Hill High school abandoned football this season and canceled its schedule, but football practice goes on daily at the school just the same. Coach Roy Adams has a definite purpose in the apparently useless program—he wants to have the best material for the basketball season and he says the football will be returned to the sole athletic purpose next year.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mohler Manson

YESTERDAY: After a series of hair-raising adventures, lovely Lynn Britton has been rescued from a Chinese revolution by Temu Darin, from whom she was fleeing when she got herself into danger. Temu is taking her to a marriage with the Prince of Shani Lun; unfortunately for everybody Peggy Telford, a friend of Lynn's from America is also along and a little bit in everybody's hair as well. But Temu's plane is lost, and now there is firing in the village.

Chapter 24

Street Fight

DAWN had broken on a clear day. The street contained a few late stragglers running towards the gate. One ragged Chinese mother on crippled feet rushed up to Lynn, thrust her tiny baby into the girl's arms, and scuttled off with two bricks in her hands to join the fight.

Lynn took the infant inside and laid it on the blankets on the kang. It was a plump, rosy-cheeked little thing not old enough to be as grimy as two elder children that followed her, each dressed in a single garment, a wadded jacket, their bodies from the waist down incredibly chapped and filthy.

"Look after them," Lynn directed Peggy blithely and hurried out again.

She saw a tall ladder leading to a parapet on the top of the wall near the gate they had entered the night before. On the parapet, bricks and boulders were stacked to ward off an attack on the gate. Lynn climbed for the view, and looking down on the outside, spied something she had not expected to see.

A party of the enemy with sword and pick and crowbar were busy digging a hole in the mud-brick wall while the attention of the villagers was drawn to the farther gate. Lynn called for help, and reaching for a stack of bricks, began hurling them down on the men.

Their officer, who was apparently preparing a charge of explosive for blasting, lifted a rifle and shot at her. Lynn dodged back but kept on with her offensive. She could cause some trouble to the party because they were working directly below her stand.

Temu returning from the scene of action at the farther gate, stared at her incredulously for a moment and then bounded up the ladder and glanced over the wall.

At sight of him the leader suddenly became galvanized. He shouted and aimed his rifle as if shooting to kill. At the officer's shout the other men had dropped their tools and caught up their weapons. The bullets came fast and furious. Temu ducked and pulled Lynn down.

"They recognized you! They're after you!" she exclaimed.

"Looks like it," he admitted. "You know there's been a fabulous reward offered for me dead or alive."

"But, how could anyone know you are here?"

He shrugged. "How does the bee find honey? How does the rat find money? The fools! They're just wasting ammunition now! If I could get that officer. There may be papers on him. I'd like to know who's back of this! You stay down!"

She heard an exchange of shots and in a moment Temu was leaning over the parapet. The men had scattered beyond range and were dropping into the canyon below, their comrades repulsed at the gates accompanying them.

Lynn rose and stood beside Temu. It was then she felt the wetness of her garments on her shoulder. Her eyes widened and she reached back. Temu put two hands on her wrist, and drawing her to him, looked over her shoulder.

"You've been shot!"

New Problem

TEMU, in one swift movement, stripped off her Mongol coat.

"I didn't feel it," she marvelled, going rather white from mental shock. As she sank down on a pile of brick, he unlooped the two buttons at the neck of her dress and looked at the wound.

"Just a scratch," he said with relief, and placing a clean, folded handkerchief over the spot, he helped her down the ladder. The moment they stepped inside the inn door, Temu directed Chan to bring hot water and the first-aid kit.

"Oh, this terrible country!" Peggy groaned when he explained what had happened. "Will she die?"

Lynn laughed. "Try to kill me." Temu placed a three-legged stool for Lynn before the window from which he punched the paper covering. The baby, she noticed, lay peacefully asleep on the kang.

"Where are the other two children?" she asked.

"Thank heaven, they disappeared," Peggy answered. "What do you think you're going to do with this baby?"

"Baby?" queried Temu absently, taping a dressing on Lynn's white shoulder.

"As if we didn't have enough trouble already Lynn went out and brought in a baby!" Peggy cried bitterly.

Temu straightened and looked towards the kang as Lynn explained about the whimpering infant.

"I only hope," he said in a troubled voice, "that its mother returns safely. Some of the Chinese women fight like tigresses."

While Lynn changed to fresh garments, Temu and Chan sought the baby's mother among the inhabitants who were already evacuating the village. They could find no woman who had mislaid a baby.

Bula returned with them. Not content, it seemed, with seeing the enemy retreat, he alone had chased them into the canyon and secured certain information for Temu.

"Just a line on the insurrectionists," evasively answered Temu to Lynn's inquiry.

After a hasty breakfast they began their trek with the last of the villagers along the northern trail. Somewhere Chan, the resourceful, secured a shoulder yoke, and swinging their luggage, started off on his tireless, cheerful trot.

Bula carried the rifles and ammunition slung across his back and a mammoth sword he had taken from one of the enemy dead. Unused to being afoot, he walked awkwardly in huge Mongol boots.

There was no one with whom to leave the baby. Temu, carrying the infant, amused Lynn inordinately.

"It's like seeing an eagle turned into a nursemaid," she chuckled.

"Eagles have babies," he reminded her.

Peggy, mincing along on extremely high heels and using her red parasol as a cane caught his free arm. "You'll have two to carry pretty soon," she predicted. "My feet are beginning to hurt already."

He looked down anxiously at her thin, expensive slippers, and when they caught up with an old man and his young wife trundling along, all their worldly goods piled high on a wheelbarrow, Temu asked if they had an extra pair of shoes to sell.

"He seems determined not to carry me," Peggy told the world at large.

"You wouldn't feel very comfortable flung across my shoulder, which is the only way I carry a damsel when she's pressed for time," he assured her, handing the baby to Lynn while he examined a peculiar pair of Grecian-like buskins occasionally seen in western China. Peggy put them on and Lynn laughed.

"Looks as though we're wearing sugar-cured hams. If Sam could see you now!"

"I wish to goodness I were with Sam!" wailed Peggy.

"Then this little excursion has done some good," replied Temu. "It's reconciled you to your husband!"

He would not allow Lynn to go along the edge of the canyon, a place in some few years to be marked a fair Chinese road that belonged to Lynn's brother-in-law.

Temu glanced [illegible]

No Sale

STRUCK by an idea, Lynn turned suddenly and put the baby in the little old man's arms. "You wanter buy baby?" she asked. "Can have." And she made signs that they could keep the child.

The young woman stooped over the infant, shook her head and spoke and her husband added his voice in an excited chatter.

Laughingly, Temu explained to the child "They are expecting a son of their own."

"Well," Lynn agreed, "it was a good idea while it lasted. They were the first Chinese family I ever saw without any children."

"Why didn't you put it in her arms and run?" Peggy demanded. "That's the way you'd do it."

Their queer procession started on its way again, Chan leading, and the one-eared Mongol on his tender feet, with their bull-and-chain gait, bringing up the rear. Temu urged them along as fast as he could, asking each group of refugees they passed if the baby he carried belonged to them.

Finally a woman informed him that she knew the child; that his mother was among the dead of the assaulted village. No, she did not want the infant at any price. There were times when silver was worthless. Though he was a boy, why not lay him down by the roadside as if he were a girl and let nature take its course? There was no way to feed such a tiny baby without its mother.

Lynn overcame that difficulty temporarily by dissolving lump sugar in sun-warmed water and giving it to the infant with a spoon. The trail soon left the top of the ridge and wandered down into a canyon beside a tumbling river, only to climb out again to a wide tableland.

They approached a high-walled farmstead, which at a distance in the clear, exhilarating sunlight, looked as romantic as a medieval castle. But when they gained admittance to the compound it exhibited the usual, dull misery of toil-driven people. The farmers intended to stay to the death rather than flee before the scourge of revolution.

A young matron of the family nursed, with her baby girl, the hungry mite Temu had carried all morning. This family was glad to keep the child since he was a boy. Temu added silver to the gift.

"At least, we've given him a continuation of life," sighed Lynn. They were sitting outside in the shade of the farmstead wall, eating the remains of the food in the lunch basket, and giving Peggy and Bula a chance to rest their feet.

The farmer possessed not even one beast of burden that they could buy or commandeer.

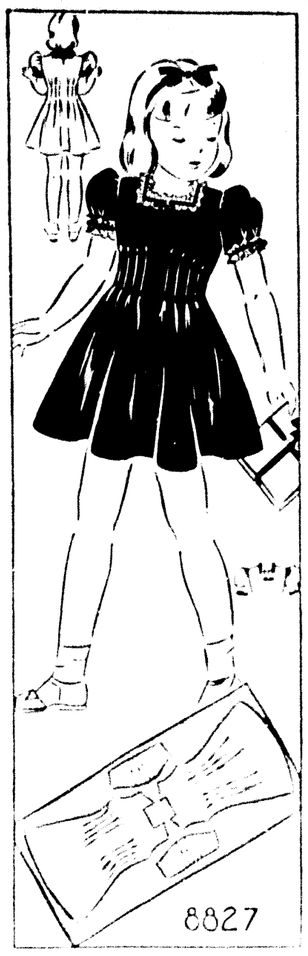
Today's Pattern

SUCH A PRETTY PARTY FROCK!

PATTERN 8827



Make this adorable frock for your own little girl, tie a ribbon round her head and send her off beaming to her next important party date! You may be sure she'll have a good time, and be the smartest little girl there! Correctly simple, with waistline slimmed in by inside tucks beneath which the skirt flares and ripples, it's trimmed with frills and ribbon at sleeves and neckline. You can see from the diagram sketch how easy this design (No. 8827) is to make. Just cut out four pieces, make the tucks and the darts, and sew it together. Even the least experienced mother or doting aunt can do it!

For the coming holiday parties, or to make as a Christmas gift, this frock will be most appropriate in velveteen or taffeta, with organdy or very fine lace for trimming. Simple as it is, this pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart.

Pattern No. 8827 is designed for sizes 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1 7-8 yards of 39-inch material; 1 1-8 yards trimming and 1 1-2 yards of velvet ribbon.

TEACHERS FORM ORGANIZATION

Social Science Instructors Band Together At Tech Session

RUSTON, Nov. 6.—(Special)—Social science teachers in north Louisiana have formed an organization "to encourage scholarship through research, restudy and reevaluation of existing data" as a result of a recent meeting attended by nearly 100 teachers at Louisiana Tech, Dr. G. W. McGinty, head of the social science department at Tech, announced.

Morrell Emmons, principal and history teacher at Simsboro, was elected president of the North Louisiana Social Science Association; C. V. Woodward, Jonesboro, Lincoln parish supervisor of schools and a history major, vice-president, and Miss Judith Crymes, history teacher at the Ruston High School, secretary.

The new organization will convene probably once or twice a year, Dr. McGinty said. Its purpose differs from the history section of the State Teachers Association, which is concerned primarily with functional phases, he explained.

The meeting from which the organization originatod was called here by Dr. McGinty, with Tech being the host. On the initial program were the following addresses: "The Frontier in North Louisiana," Robert W. Mondy, assistant professor of social science at Tech; "The Administration of Governor Francis T. Nicholls, 1876-1880," Dr. McGinty; "Our Interests in the Far East," Dr. J. O. Van Hook, assistant professor of history at Tech; and "The European War," Dr. J. E. McGee, associate professor of social science at Tech.

President E. S. Richardson gave a welcoming talk to the visiting teachers and Dr. Rodney Cline, dean of instruction, led in the singing of "God Bless America." Refreshments were served in the campus home economics cottage by the Tech Home Economics Club.

Gave Up Hope Of Being Well Again

Surprised With Gly-Cas' Action In Coming To Her Rescue; Housework No Drudgery She Feels So Well Now

"I am so thankful for all Gly-Cas has done for me," said Mrs. Alfred Lanclos, 316 Magnolia street, Lafayette, La. "For almost as long as I can remember, constipation had been such a worry. My digestion was very bad because of this condition and as sure as I ate I would suffer with gas and bloating regardless of strict dieting. My clothes would actually become tight I would bloat so. I became nervous, had extreme dizzy spells and lacked the strength and energy to do my housework. Medicine after medicine failed to bring me desired results and I had about given up hope of ever feeling well again when Gly-Cas was brought to my attention. I began its use for myself and found this herbal remedy even more than I had expected.

"I was soon getting regular bowel action with a short trial of Gly-Cas," continued Mrs. Lanclos. "Now with the proper removal of those clogged intestinal poisons I have shown rapid improvement. I can enjoy the foods I wish now without distress following, strength and energy is returning with proper nourishment and no longer is it a drudgery to do my housework. It is wonderful to feel so refreshed and to enjoy life as others in good health. . . . Thanks to Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 318 DeSiard street, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Stocks, weak; post-election selling hits leaders. Bonds, lower; utilities, industrials, rails slip. Foreign exchange, narrow; Canadian dollar tends upward. Cotton, firm; Wall Street, Bombay and spot house support. Sugar, higher; raw markets firm. Metals, steady; lead highest since October, 1937. Wool tops, weak; liquidation and hedge selling.

CHICAGO—Wheat, lower; selling pressure, demand lacking. Corn, lower; influenced by wheat. Cattle, strong to 25 higher; light receipts. Hogs, 10-15 lower; narrow demand.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Post-election selling waves toppled leading stocks one to four or more points in today's market.

A very slow drift after a fast start failed to follow through and prices hovered in the latter part of the proceedings. A number of stocks, including a few favorites managed to push upward fractions at one time but by the majority of them turned fractionally lower. Utilities were among the weakest sections of the

DEATHS

MRS. LUCY C. DUPREE

DELHI, Nov. 6.—Special—Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy C. Dupree 64, who died Tuesday night at her home south of Delhi, were held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Delhi Baptist church with Rev. C. F. Almond officiating. Interment followed in the Delhi Masonic cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, J. D. Dupree; four daughters, Mrs. J. M. Saddle, Mrs. Cleo Reynolds, and Mrs. L. A. Stout, all of Delhi, Miss Lucy Cornelia Dupree, Rayville, three sons, Curtis Dupree, Delhi; Clarjie C. Dupree and Luke Dupree, both of New Orleans.

Mrs. Dupree, who was born and reared in Concordia, La., has lived in this vicinity for the past 22 years. She was a member of the Delhi Baptist church.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

SIDNEY LANE CLARK

BASTROP, Nov. 6.—(Special)—Funeral services for Sidney Lane Clark, three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Clark who died in a local clinic Tuesday morning, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Reeder Funeral Chapel with Mrs. F. C. Weaver officiating. Interment followed in the Mer Rouge Cemetery.

The infant is survived by his parents, three sisters, Katie Lee, Gladys, and Leather Jane Clark, and one brother, Chester Clark, all of Bastrop.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Reeder Funeral Home.

DR. H. M. WALKER

TALLULAH, Nov. 6.—(Special)—Dr. H. M. Walker, 53, veterinarian, died suddenly Wednesday morning of a heart attack. He was formerly employed by the State Agricultural Department connected with the tick eradication project in this section.

He is survived by his widow, one sister, Mrs. Agnes W. Bedford, director of the Madison Parish Welfare Department, and other relatives.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

MET THE POLICE

SPARTANBURG, S. C.—(AP)—A man, injured in a cutting affray, regained consciousness to find himself in a speeding ambulance which he took to be a police patrol wagon.

He slipped open the back door of the ambulance and made a hazardous escape.

Police picked him up and took him to the hospital.

STOCKS RECOVER ON EARLY MART

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—After a few minutes of moderately active selling, particularly in electric power issues, the stock market turned upward under the leadership of steel shares in the early dealings today.

This post election response of Wall Street was described in brokerage circles as representing a flurry of disappointed selling on the part of Willkie supporters, which quickly gave way to buying by traders impressed with the huge volume of industrial orders growing out of the defense program.

Early losses of around $1 in United States Steel and Bethlehem were quickly converted into gains of about the same extent. Republic Steel and Boeing Aircraft pushed upward. An early drop of $2 in Douglas Aircraft was regained.

In the first few minutes of selling, some stocks were traded in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares.

SCOUT LEADER TO COME HERE

Gerald A. Speedy, assistant national director of cubbing, Boy Scouts of America, will assist scouts of this area on cubbing plans, November 9 and 10, it was announced Wednesday.

Mr. Speedy will meet with present leaders of cub packs and scoutmasters at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Ouachita parish courthouse.

The speaker has been associated with the Boy Scout movement as a Scout and leader since 1922. He served in the Minneapolis Area Council in the capacities of cubmaster, assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster, and camp director.

He has been actively engaged in the cubbing program since its inception in 1930, at which time he was serving as cubmaster of an experimental cub pack. He served for seven years as director of boys work at Pillsbury Settlement House of Minneapolis, Minn. He became field executive and cubbing director of the Minneapolis Area Council, and was appointed assistant national director of cubbing in February, 1940, and is also the writer of "How Boys of Cubbing," published by the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Speedy will stay over to attend the scoutmasters barbecue from 4 to 7 p.m. November 11 at Camp Ke-Ro-La, according to the announcement.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN
Is Lennon's Used Cars
HERE'S THE REASON:

Did you know that used cars traded in on 1941 Buicks are better used cars? Why? Because the original owner kept it well-serviced and gave it mechanical service when needed. You owe it to yourself before buying any used car to visit Lennon's Used Car Department. A look will be convincing.

TROPHIES ADDED BY RALLY BODY

Two Additional Prizes Will Be Awarded This Year, It's Announced

RUSTON, Nov. 6.—(Special)—Two additional sweepstakes trophies will be offered this year by the North Louisiana High School Rally Association to the schools in both class A and class B divisions winning the highest total of points in both literary and track events combined, it was announced by M. H. Folk, Jr., rally secretary.

The executive committee of the rally association made that decision at a meeting held at Louisiana Tech to encourage more schools to participate in all phases of competition sponsored by the group, the secretary reported.

Under the sweepstakes offer, no school may more than double in literary points the points scored in track; that is, a school scoring 10 points in track may count no more than 20 points for its total of literary points, it was explained, the purpose being to prevent a school heavy in literary points from winning a sweepstakes trophy without a high number of points in track events.

The new offer will not affect the awarding of championship trophies in class A and class B literary events and the championship trophies in track, as have been awarded in the past, Mr. Folk stated.

In the future, schools competing in softball, tennis, volley ball and baseball, as well as track, will be cassified into A and B on the same basis as the literary classifications, namely, schools with 150 or more pupils will be in the A division and those with less than 150 in the B division.

Another change in the rally plans calls for a meeting of high school principals to be held on Friday afternoon of the general rally week-end, instead of on Saturday morning as previously, in the belief that more of the principals will be here for the Friday meeting.

Events to be sponsored by the rally association at Tech have been announced as follows: Basketball, February 21-22; music festival, February 28-March 1; tennis, volley ball and softball, April 11-12; debating league tournament, April 19, and the general rally, April 18-19.

Members of the executive committee attending the recent meeting here included E. R. Hester, Arcadia, president; M. J. Haynes, Lisbon, vice-president; Mr. Folk, Ruston, secretary; J. A. Garrett, Bonita; Jack Hayes, Monroe; J. D. Koonce, Jonesboro; G. S. Manning, Calhoun; H. G. Robinson, Homer.

DEMOCRAT WINNER IN THIRD DISTRICT

LAFAYETTE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—James Domengeaux, Democratic candidate for congress from the Third district, rolled up an almost two to one majority in Tuesday's election over the Republican candidate, David W. Pipes, Jr., following a heated election campaign in that district.

Returns today from 141 of the district's 168 precents gave Domengeaux 21,798 votes, Pipes 11,899.

COLETTE TELLS OF HER FRANCE

Episodes In German Drive Into Nation Are Described By Singer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—". . . At the chateau we had one old rooster. When the bombing planes came over, he burst out crowing . . .

"The louder the planes roared, the louder he crowed, as if he was trying to drown them out. We were used to the war noises, but that rooster on top of them was too much. As soon as the raid was over we put him into the stew. . ."

Colette d'Arville, the beautiful French singer, was relating, amid vibrant tossing of her wavy dark hair and flashing of her dark eyes, her experiences in the war.

Just off the boat, and stretching herself in the luxury of a three-acre suite high up in the Waldorf tower, she spoke of the war with bland Gallic matter-of-factness.

Her older brother is a German prisoner, and she dressed the gangrenous stumps of soldiers' legs, but she can still laugh at the memory of a soldier, when she stuck her neck out of a roadside ditch as a bomber flew by, shoving her face in the dirt.

Miss d'Arville was at her Normandy chateau—a modest country place despite the fancy name, she insists—when the Germans invaded France.

"The two chateaux nearest mine were bombed several times, but mine wasn't touched—perhaps, because there weren't any soldiers there.

"An officer came to the door one day and asked if the army could take over the place and I told him certainly, only I wanted to keep one room.

"'I'm a singer,' I told him, 'and all my music and everything is in that room and I have to practice there two or three hours every day . . .'

"He said: 'Thank you—I don't think we'll need your place after all . . .'

"One night as the Germans got closer a soldier came and asked if he could hide some trucks under our tree.

"I suspected he was a fifth columnist, so I asked him where he was from, and he said, 'from the front.'

"'But the front is miles away, across the river,' I said.

"'No, it's only seven miles,' he said—'Can't you hear the guns?'

"All the time we had thought they were our own DCA (anti-aircraft)—and they were the enemy.

"I asked him where his captain was.

"'You can see him if you want, out on the road,' he said. 'He's dead. We haven't had a chance to pick him up . . .'

On June 13th, a few days before France fell, Miss d'Arville bundled her young brother, a girl friend of hers, her chauffeur, her maid and herself all into a supposedly four-passenger car and drove 600 miles to her mother's home at Dax, near the Spanish border.

"At Dax they were just setting up an emergency hospital. There were wounded men all over France who hadn't been treated for days because there were no facilities, it had all been so sudden.

"They told me I had better not try nursing because the men were in such bad conditions it would make me sick.

"I said all right, if I was going to be sick I might as well get it over with. So I opened the first door I came to and looked at a man whose leg had been blown off. . . . I looked in several other rooms. . . . Dressings that hadn't been changed for days and smelled horribly.

"I went out and was good and sick for an hour. Then I forgot about it and went to work.

"I saved one soldier who had double pneumonia. The doctors had given him up. 'Be nice to him,' they said. 'He hasn't got long. . . .'

"When I have a cold I take a big glass of hot rum. If you do that for a cold, for double pneumonia you should give him rum all the time—so I did, all day and all night, with champagne, to make it a little nicer.

"And he got well. His whole family has adopted me.

"When the hospital in Dax got running smoothly, I decided to make a trip to Paris to see if my house there was still all right."

She was held up for a week on the border between occupied and unoccupied territory, spent one night in a field, and on several occasions used the only bathtub available—the river.

'Outside Paris a German officer asked me for proof I had lived there. I had none. But then he asked me how I happened to speak German, and I told him I was a singer, and he said he hoped my singing German was better than my speaking German. I got mad and that made him laugh and he let me through."

She found her Paris house intact and the Normandy chateau, which the Germans had used in good condition too, "only they had moved all the kitchen furniture into the dining room, and the dining room furniture into the living room, and things like that . . ."

With the last drops of gasoline allowed her under the stringent rationing system, Miss d'Arville drove into Vichy, the unoccupied-area capital.

She was crowded there for two months despite inside misery in the bank, because of the currency restrictions.

Finally from friends in France and in the United States she rounded up enough to come over here, where plenty of funds are available from concert and opera contracts. But meanwhile—

I had only one dress, for nearly two months. And of course it couldn't be a fine one, or even a tol one—it had to be . . . a black and white checked one . . ."

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE IS SET

Veterans' Organizations, Civic Groups, Schools To Take Part

Route of the annual Armistice day parade to be staged Monday November 11 in the Twin Cities was announced Tuesday by Chief of Police Frank V. Restell, marshall in charge.

Participants in what is expected to be a mammouth parade are the L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion in Monroe, the Bodenheimer-Hasley Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Burnette-Downs Post of West Monroe American Legion, Spanish War Veterans and Disabled American Veterans.

Also marching behind massed colors will be the national guard, Boy Scouts, Girl Reserves, Campfire Girls, and bands of Northeast Junior College, Ouachita Parish High school, Neville High, St. Matthew's and the Louisiana Training Institute.

The parade will begin at Lee-ville avenue and the new Ouachita river bridge at 10 a.m., and will proceed across the bridge and turn north on Trenton street in West Monroe. The marchers will swing across the old traffic bridge, proceed east on DeSiard street to 6th street, where the parade will disband.

Following the parade, Armistice day services will be held at 11 a.m. in the First Methodist church. Rev. Edward F. Hayward, rector of the Grace Episcopal church, will deliver the principal address.

Chairman in charge of the program are Chief Restell, C. B. Baum, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post; Sidney Freeman, commander of the Burnette-Downs Post, and H. M. James, commander of the Veterans of Foreign wars.

OFFICER SPEAKS AT LIONS' MEET

Barksdale Lieutenant Says England Will Win Against Germany

The only way to combat an air force in modern warfare is to damage the enemy air bases before the airplanes are released on a flight of destruction, Lieutenant L. M. Gregory of the army air corps, Barksdale Field, Shreveport, told members and guests of the Lions club at a luncheon held Tuesday in the Frances hotel.

The guest speaker was introduced by J. Norman Coon, chairman of the programs committee, and the program was arranged by C. R. Tidwell, chairman of the committee on civic affairs. The luncheon was presided over by Louie Mathis, president of the Lions club.

In his address Lieutenant Gregory explained that the army and navy air corps are not separate departments as they are in other countries, but that they work in conjunction with each other. He said that the air corps is an "adjunct to the army in one case, and adjunct to the navy in the other."

The 90 persons present at the luncheon heard Lieutenant Gregory say that Barksdale Field is specializing in the training of flyers to handle bombing planes, and that the army authorities are planning to secure fields to be used solely for the purpose of bombing practice.

Lieutenant Gregory said that only trained pilots are allowed to handle bombers, and because of this the air corps is more efficient. Pilots of German bombers are not as a whole trained pilots, and consequently are not accurate, Lieutenant Gregory remarked.

However, he said, the Germans do have a fine air force, and for this reason were able to conquer Czechoslovakia without going to war. But England will win the war with the aid of the United States, Lieutenant Gregory predicted.

He said that the airports of bases in Brazil are controlled by German concerns and interests, and are to be considered a menace to this country.

Lieutenant Gregory is a Mississippian by birth. Assigned to duty in San Antonio and Hawaii, he will be transferred to New Orleans in January for duty at the new air bases now under construction.

MUSIC COURSE OPENS THURSDAY

Lectures Will Be Held At N. E. Junior College; Classes For Laymen

The first of a series of lectures of the Music Appreciation class at Northeast Junior college, will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The course which will be run for 10 weeks, will be conducted by Harry M. Lemert, director of the Northeast Junior College band, and instructor of brasses and reeds.

This course, which is a non-credit course, is designed for laymen not necessarily having a musical background, for the purpose of learning to recognize different instruments and sections of the orchestra, placing emphasis on what to listen for in music.

Mr. Lemert is a student of Leo Sowerby, first American to win the Prix de Rome award of music, and is a composer of international reputation.

MEETING DEFENSE COMMUNICATION NEEDS TODAY AND TOMORROW

TO be prepared for emergencies of whatever magnitude or urgency is a requirement to which telephone company workers are accustomed.

The National Defense Program is a new emergency to be met. New switchboards are being installed, several thousand miles of telephone lines have been strung and large scale telephone engineering projects are under way to serve the fifty newly approved and existing army and navy posts and air bases located in the territory served by this Company.

Long distance communication facilities are also being expanded and new circuits have been established to assure ample long distance telephone service between these military bases and all parts of the nation.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear, meeting the nation's present defense needs and prepared to adequately meet those of tomorrow.

PYTHIANS READY FOR CEREMONIES

Reorganization Of Local Temple Will Be Completed Friday

Final preparations are being made to entertain a large number of visitors from Jackson, Meridian and other Mississippi cities, who with their wives, will be guests of El Miro Temple No. 187, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan on Friday at the Pythian Hall in Monroe.

The local temple is being reorganized with a great ceremonial, and the dokey temples of the Mississippi cities are to confer the work on a large class of local candidates.

The program has been announced as follows:

10 a.m., registration of visiting votaries; 11 a.m., registration of tyros (initiates); afternoon, all visiting votaries and their ladies invited to spend as much time as they wish in the spacious club rooms of Stonewall lodge. Committees from Stonewall lodge will be on hand to help entertain all visitors; 6:30 p.m., supper for all dokeys, tyros and their ladies; 7:30 p.m., ceremonial; 9 p.m., "Storm on the Desert"; 10 p.m., dance, at Pythian hall for all dokeys, tyros and their ladies.

The entire program will be held at the Pythian hall on St. John street. All Pythians in good standing who have not as yet signed up for the dokeys, are urged to sign up some time Friday, and to be present for the ceremonial.

ELECTRIC SERVICE FOR CAMP SHELBY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Harry Slattery, administrator of rural electrification, said electric service would be available at Camp Shelby, Miss., on November 15, shortly before selective service trainees begin to arrive.

On that date, he said, the Pearl River Valley Electric Power Association would finish construction of seven miles of 110,000-volt transmission line and a substation. He added only 53 days would have elapsed since REA engineers started to design the project.

KIWANIANS HEAR DELOSS WALKER

Magazine Editor Is Guest Speaker At Club Luncheon

The building of a stronger nation is accomplished "when men get a vision and then organize," DeLoss Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, said in an address at the Kiwanis club luncheon held Wednesday in the Virginia hotel.

Mr. Walker, widely known as an industrial and business leader, addressed the Monroe Town Hall Wednesday night on the subject, "Millions Are Looking For Bosses."

The speaker was introduced to members and guests at the Kiwanis luncheon-meeting by S. A. Moss. Ivy C. Jordan, president, presided.

Discussing the question of leadership, Mr. Walker reminded the group that "the followers don't select their leaders, the leaders select their followers, just as Christ said to a crowd of fishermen, 'Come and follow me.' From our thinking the best should come out, and in this way to build a stronger nation.

"The leader does not have to know the issues to know what it is all about. A man died on the cross 2,000 years ago, although he didn't know the issues," Mr. Walker said.

The speaker said he believed that strikes could be avoided if employer and employee could reach a closer understanding. He said that people should learn love of neighbor rather than hatred, and that business leaders should take a keen interest in the fellow who doesn't know quite as much as they do.

Mr. Walker related how he helped organize hard-hit Terre Haute, Ind., during the depression by getting the labor, church and civic groups to cooperate in bringing back the old industries that had left. He explained that the same formula could be applied to any city where rebuilding is needed.

ROOSEVELT LAUDED BY BUSINESS HOUSE

The page's headline repeated the outcome of Tuesday's memorable election with great economy of words: "Applesauce!"

REFERENCE FOR '44: FIVE STATES HELD STRICTLY TO MARK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Memo for future reference in 1944:

Five states that always picked the presidential winner since the turn of the century ran true to form Tuesday. Maryland, Ohio, Wyoming, Idaho and Missouri all wound up in the Roosevelt column.

Two formerly infallible states, however, backed the wrong man this time. The Kansas record, dating back to 1896, was broken when the state went for Willkie. North Dakota, on every ballot bandwagon since 1892, missed the 1940 ride by going Republican.

New Mexico and Arizona have the unique record of being the only states which have never given electoral votes to anyone but a victor. However, they were not admitted to the union until 1912. Maryland has the longest run of correct choices, beginning in 1888.

New York has been found in the wrong camp only three times since the War Between the States, in 1868, in 1876 and in 1916.

FLYNN PREDICTION ON STATES PERFECT

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—As a political prognosticator, Edward J. Flynn is the equal of former Democratic national chairman, James A. Farley, who predicted that President Roosevelt would carry 46 states in the 1936 election.

In his pre-election forecast, Flynn gave the Republicans a maximum of nine states—and that's what they won. However, he slightly underrated Wendell Willkie's electoral vote. He said it would be 58; it was 63.

JAMES ROOSEVELT GOES TO TRAINING

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, the president's eldest son, and W. S. Van Dyke II, the movie director, left by train tonight for San Diego to join a marine reserves training unit.

Roosevelt, a captain in the 23rd battalion, 6th marines which Van Dyke commands, currently is on the production staff of movies but said he would relinquish his duties to an associate until his term of duty is completed.

Southern Women Will Benefit According To Stipulations

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Funds to maintain a home for indigent southern women and to offer educational advantages to southern girls are provided for in the will of Conkey P. Whitehead, probated here.

Whitehead, Atlanta capitalist and son of the late Joseph B. Whitehead, founder of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, also bequeathed $200,000 for a chair of chemistry at Yale university.

The residuary estate is to be shared by his mother, Mrs. Lettie Pate Evans, of Hot Springs, Va., and his widow, Mrs. Emma Gain Whitehead.

Only residents of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana may benefit through the projected Lettie Pate Whitehead foundation for southern women and girls.

Whitehead died Saturday in New York following a brief illness.

F. D. R. INVITED TO VISIT STATE

Jones Wires Congratulations To Chief Executive On Victory

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Governor Sam Jones Wednesday telegraphed congratulations to President Roosevelt and urged him to come to Louisiana for a vacation after the strain of the national campaign.

"Congratulations to you and America on your record-breaking victory," Governor Jones said in his message to the chief executive at Hyde Park. "Now that the election is over I invite you to come down in Louisiana to the greatest fishing grounds in the world and relax before resuming your arduous duties."

Jones himself is planning a rest, beginning with a visit to Crowley today for the rice festival.

The governor also sent congratulations to state Representative James Domengeaux upon his election to congress from the third Louisiana district over David W. Pipes, Jr., Republican.

In a statement, Jones asserted that the state and national Democratic victories were "fortunate for America in these perilous times."

"With five new congressmen in Washington and the three old congressmen promising to cooperate," the governor said, "Louisiana should consolidate its efforts toward the upbuilding of a better and greater state and the securing of additional national recognition."

The governor invited the five congressmen elected with his endorsement to lunch at the executive mansion Saturday with their wives.

They are later to attend army day festivities preceding the football game between Louisiana State and Mississippi State, where the state's three congressmen who were reelected, together with United States Senators John Overton and Allen Ellender, have been invited as guests of the university.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Governor and Mrs. Sam Jones and their three-year-old daughter Carolyn turned cowboy Wednesday when, dressed in full Western regalia, they rode cow ponies at the head of a parade.

The procession heralded the opening of the five-day annual Louisiana State University Rodeo and Livestock show.

The governor and first lady waved gaily to spectators along the parade route but Carolyn clutched tightly the saddle of her small mount.

Four bands provided a noisy "wild West" atmosphere for the troupe of prancing horses and colorfully dressed riders.

REPORT FIVE KILLED WORKING ON TUNNEL

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A section of an old tunnel being repaired in nearby Stowe township collapsed today, burying a squad of six negro workers, five of whom were believed killed.

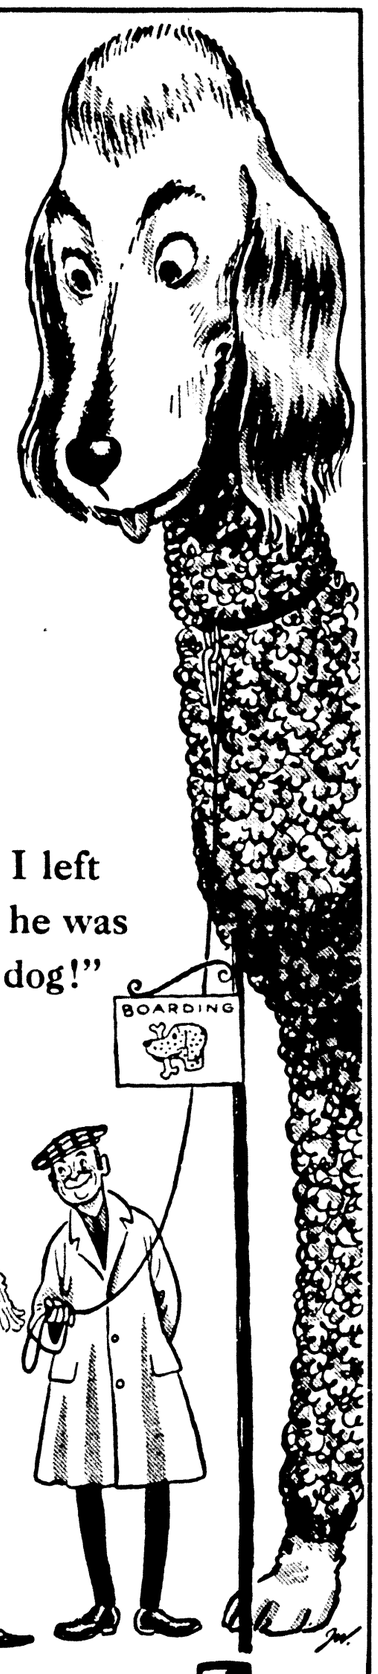
One of the men, William Peay, 30, was dug out of the debris alive. He said a "sudden loud, cracking noise" had given an instant's warning of the danger.

Deputy Coroner Joseph A. Demjan reported rescuers, using steam shovels, had removed two bodies and reached two others.

None was identified immediately.

The tunnel, about 15 feet high and 800 feet long, runs through a hill connecting two communities. It was condemned 10 years ago but recently, in response to complaints, the county commissioners ordered it repaired.

Since the first automobile show, the 35 billion dollars, or five times all wages generated by the use of motor the monetary gold now held in the vehicles, have amounted to more than United States.



AND SPEAKING of spectacular growth—have you heard about Paul Jones?

Here's what happened: Two years ago, Paul Jones was being praised by connoisseurs for its delightful, non-sweet dryness. But though there were many men who enjoy a dry, tangy whiskey, some felt they couldn't afford Paul Jones at its former price.

So, without changing any of Paul Jones' expensive qualities, we reduced the price! And in less than two years, Paul Jones' popularity grew five times as big!
